B) Reading Comprehension ( 16 Marks)*Read the passage then answer the following questions:

Will people still read books on paper 100 years from now? A few years ago, many people would have said no. It looks that iBook's on personal computers and the Internet could replace books on paper in the future. Now; however, most people think that books on paper are more important and they are here to stay.

There are a number of reasons why iBook's on personal computers and the Internet won't replace books on paper completely. One reason is that books on paper are much cheaper than iBook's on computers. Books on paper don't need a power source. You can read a book for as long as you want and wherever you want. You never have to worry about losing power. Also, many people feel more comfortable reading words in a paper book than reading words on a computer screen or any electronic device. It is less tiring to the eyes.

Will books in the future be similar to the books you can buy today? The answer to that question is no. In the future, you may only need to buy one book. With this one book, you will be able to read stories, plays, and even today's newspaper. It will look like today's book, but it will be electronic. One of the inventors of these future books said that they will have a small button on the side. When you press the button, words will appear on the page. When you want to read a different story, you can press the button again and a new story will quickly appear.
